

You'd have to
be crazy
to design a bike
for each specific
off-road category.

You'd have to build more than a dozen models...

Check out the '96 KTM line, compare it against any of the other manufacturers. Their off-road line won't represent a third of the models on this page. We believe that to be more than just competitive, but to be the best in today's off-road market, you have to specialize. Which means, to build an off-road machine that performs effectively in any of the many forms of off-road competition – you need to build motorcycles specific to the task. No easy task in itself. You clearly have to be dedicated to off-road performance, it can't be a sideline...and, of course, it doesn't hurt to be crazy.
